

I believe this action may help benefit the separation between aircraft at certain altitudes. This method may help reduce accidents and make certain aircrafts with (TCAS II) more efficient with their fuel and time. This RVSM airspace might be crucial in passenger/cargo expedience.